Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will arrive in Saigon next Sunday with a team of high advisers for an over-all inspection of the Viet-Nam war effort against Communist aggression.

Authoritative sources said Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Chiefs of Staff, and John McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency will accompany McNamara and take part in recommendations to be submitted to President Johnson.

William P. Bundy, newly appointed Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, and William H. Sullivan, chairman of a newly created interagency committee to coordinate and carry out policies on Viet-Nam, also will travel with the Defense chief.

McNamara is expected back about March 13.
